

THE BRECKENRIDGE NEWS.

VOL. XIV.

CLOVERPORT, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, MAY 28, 1890.

NO. 44.

GANTER'S
CHICKEN
Cholera Cure!

CLARE'S REVENGE

NO VISION of the terrible calamity approaching them could sway over his mind the joyous minds of Guy L'Estrange and May Fielding. They had floated that sunny afternoon in June on the bosom of the lake. That lake's slumberous depths, hidden by sun-tinted water, was the principal attraction of L'Estrange's boat. And it had many attractions, both to those who knew him and to those who visitors came to it for the first time.

It was one of the prettiest places of the county, with its grand avenue of birches, its groves of maples, and its lawns and flower walks, its wide expanses of lawn like venture.

The house itself was worth a journey to see.

It stood on the summit of a long, sloping hill, overlooking in front an undulating expanse of greenward, with trees dotted here and there, with patches of flowers gemmings its beauty.

Behind it, and on both sides, were dark woods—or what seemed to be so, though when entered it was possible to pass at ease through interlaced paths, cool even in the hottest day of summer.

The L'Estranges had come of the proud old families of the country.

They could chain an unskilled descent from ancestors who in the good old time had done good service to their country, and never did it seem less likely than on this bright June day that a shadow would fall upon the honor of old May.

They were young, too, who were now out on the most agreeable water, and were to be married in a week.

He was handsome, rich, the owner of Eastridge Park and estates. She was a young, beautiful, the ward of May Fielding, the widow of a man of which sloped down to the lake side where here formed the boundary of the property.

She was a girl of whom any mother might be proud.

She was only just past that most beautiful of ages, "sweet seventeen"; bright with girlish grace; was now no longer a girl, but a woman in her prime, of which she had formed the boundary of the property.

Her large, laughing eyes were of a deep blue, and capable of expressing deep emotion; her lips were curved and rippled, her smile bright, her golden hair chattering like an aurore, round her well shaped head.

Her form was beautifully shaped; the shoulders and bust perfect; a tender grace seemed to pervade her whole person.

She was, as we have said, the ward of Mrs. Raymond, of the Lodge; an orphan, and no one to defend her from the storm, save this weak woman and Guy L'Estrange.

Her father had left her a large fortune entirely uninsured.

For her present age she could dispose of it as she pleased.

But it was not of riches they were thinking now.

It was in the delights of love that they were drawn; and upon any cloud could cross the path which seemed so bright.

They lay back upon the water, the boat drifting on; the lying in his arms, gazing up into his love's eyes as he pressed kisses on her soft lips, and her hand pressed tightly over her swelling bosom.

"Oh, how I hate her!" she cried. "But I am in love with him, and must make myself content with him."

She pressed into the bosom of the lover—the thought that she might claim herself, in fact, before she met him again.

But her mind was too busy to be tranquillized.

The same thoughts would crowd upon her brain. It was too late now; all her scheming had been for nothing; in a week they would be married.

She turned from the contemplation of the future, with trembling lip and her hand pressed tightly over her swelling bosom.

"No, I have made no mistake," she said. "I am your husband, Roy Talbot, and you are my masquerader; for I am the owner of the park, the walled in which you can now see. If you are in trouble, I am sure I and my aunt will be happy to give you aid; and the way to do this is to confess that you have lied to us; that our glance has assured us that she was richly dressed—or that sort of thing. But you have, I regret to say, made some sad errors as regards me."

She looked at him with a look of mingled scorn and wonder, though there was something of wistful disappointment and tender reproach in her glances.

"No, I have made no mistake," she said. "I am your husband, Roy Talbot, and why you are masquerading to part them ever, I do not know. The thought of her happiness—of mine—of the happiness of the lover—that she might claim herself, in fact, before she met him again.

But her mind was too busy to be tranquillized.

The same thoughts would crowd upon her brain. It was too late now; all her scheming had been for nothing; in a week they would be married.

How could they think of evil?

It had suddenly, however, roused himself, after one long, lingering kiss, and the calm.

May laughed gay.

"What a foolish master, Guy!" she cried.

"What sudden resolution has made you discard me in this manner?"

"My dearest," he said, "I must answer you the words of the poet: 'With these covers, I am not all time.'

"But you are not a business man," pointed May, dryly.

"My love, I am today. I must go over to Eastridge Park," he said, as he began to row towards shore.

"How lovely the day is, too!" she cried.

"It is simply delicious out here upon the water. Must you go over today?"

"Yes, I am," cried Guy L'Estrange, gayly.

"I am in a mood of health which must be settled. I don't want anything of that kind to bother me when my bird has flown to her nest. I shall not long await you, but I will call upon you at once with my boat, and I intend spending at least a couple of hours at the lodge tonight."

He helped her ashore, and then fastened the boat to the mooring post.

"You know you are always welcome," said May tenderly; "but—oh, Guy, what a strange master it is that your right arm is not in its socket, and I never notice it when I look at him."

She had taken hold of his white muscular arm, and was gazing intently on a strange tattoo mark, skilfully wrought on the inside of his upper right arm, and consisting of a number of feathers and a kind of hawk which was mounted on a small shield.

A dark cloud seemed to pass over his face as he spoke, but it vanished as quickly as it came.

"What a son of a parent's," he said.

"Only wish I could get rid of it. But I cannot without disfiguring myself, so I am forced to let it remain."

Then, as if ashamed of his action before Mrs. Raymond and her daughter, he muttered some inarticulate address to them and went on.

He might have imagined the thoughts which had entered his mind as she spoke of those simple marks.

They talked and laughed, and otherwise acted as lovers will do as they approached the house, ignorant of the dark vengeful eyes fixed upon them, dark eyes whose owner glared at them from behind the safe concealment of the curtain room opening on to the garden.

They took in with angry distinctness the whole scene of the tall, pale figure formed by L'Estrange in his boat, as well as the sweet form of May Fielding, his fiancée, the tender, gentle attitude of the man, the shy, trustful glances of the girl.

He was driven there in the dog cart, and the grueling, having received instructions at what time to fetch him on his return from Philadelphia, drove off, the skittish mare soon taking the light vehicle out of sight.

It was very quiet at the station when Guy L'Estrange entered, no sign of bustle or preparation of any kind.

A porter, after a few moments, came forward, touching his hat.

"Good evening, London!"

"No, Mason, I want to go to Barchester," said Guy.

"Train gone this ten minutes, sir," said the man, "not another until 5 o'clock, and you'll be well off and change on to the other line."

"Train gone!" repeated Guy in some irritation, as he took out his watch. "Confound it, it is twelve minutes past. No, I shan't get you to thank me. I shall be too late for my appointment to do. Good afternoon, Mason; I shall stroll home, and try luck again to-morrow morning."

As Guy L'Estrange began retracing his steps along the road, the face of nature seemed to have changed—at any rate, to him.

The nearest way home was by Lockley Woods, and these he entered through a gap in the hedge.

It was a certain extent, private property, and tramps and gypsies would have been ordered off it.

But Guy L'Estrange, heaving a long sigh, the boat was privileged, and he swung along the bank and oak avenues as if he had a right to them.

His mind, in fact, was strongly concentrated on one thing—a desire to reach the lodge as quickly as possible, to see May Fielding again, and to be sure that she had been separated only a couple of hours, and to see her safe and well.

Guy ridiculed all kinds of presentiment, and even of forebodings, but still yet he was ill at ease, and nervous.

He advanced quickly, however, and before he had time to realize what was happening she had placed her hand upon his arm, and, drawing back her veil, revealed a face of infinite tenderness.

She looked into his face with a glance in which eager love and fear were strangely mingled.

"How glad I am to see you again," she cried, "how glad I am to have left you without a word!"

For a moment Guy L'Estrange was too petrified to speak, but at length contrived to do so.

"Madam, I am sorry if my words give you pain, but you have made a great mistake, one which to me is irreparable. You are a good girl, Guy L'Estrange, am the owner of the park, the walled in which you can now see. If you are in trouble, I am sure I and my aunt will be happy to give you aid; and the way to do this is to confess that you have lied to us; that our glance has assured us that she was richly dressed—or that sort of thing. But you have, I regret to say, made some sad errors as regards me."

She looked at him with a look of mingled scorn and wonder, though there was something of wistful disappointment and tender reproach in her glances.

"Madam, I am sorry if my words give you pain, but you have made a great mistake, one which to me is irreparable. You are a good girl, Guy L'Estrange, am the owner of the park, the walled in which you can now see. If you are in trouble, I am sure I and my aunt will be happy to give you aid; and the way to do this is to confess that you have lied to us; that our glance has assured us that she was richly dressed—or that sort of thing. But you have, I regret to say, made some sad errors as regards me."

She turned from the contemplation of the future, with trembling lip and her hand pressed tightly over her swelling bosom.

"No, I have made no mistake," she said. "I am your husband, Roy Talbot, and you are my masquerader; for I am the owner of the park, the walled in which you can now see. If you are in trouble, I am sure I and my aunt will be happy to give you aid; and the way to do this is to confess that you have lied to us; that our glance has assured us that she was richly dressed—or that sort of thing. But you have, I regret to say, made some sad errors as regards me."

She looked at him with a look of mingled scorn and wonder, though there was something of wistful disappointment and tender reproach in her glances.

"No, I have made no mistake," she said. "I am your husband, Roy Talbot, and why you are masquerading to part them ever, I do not know. The thought of her happiness—of mine—of the lover—that she might claim herself, in fact, before she met him again.

But her mind was too busy to be tranquillized.

The same thoughts would crowd upon her brain. It was too late now; all her scheming had been for nothing; in a week they would be married.

How could they think of evil?

It had suddenly, however, roused himself, after one long, lingering kiss, and the calm.

May laughed gay.

"What a foolish master, Guy!" she cried.

"What sudden resolution has made you discard me in this manner?"

"My dearest," he said, "I must answer you the words of the poet: 'With these covers, I am not all time.'

"But you are not a business man," pointed May, dryly.

"My love, I am today. I must go over to Eastridge Park," he said, as he began to row towards shore.

"How lovely the day is, too!" she cried.

"It is simply delicious out here upon the water. Must you go over today?"

"Yes, I am," cried Guy L'Estrange, gayly.

"I am in a mood of health which must be settled. I don't want anything of that kind to bother me when my bird has flown to her nest. I shall not long await you, but I will call upon you at once with my boat, and I intend spending at least a couple of hours at the lodge tonight."

He helped her ashore, and then fastened the boat to the mooring post.

"You know you are always welcome," said May tenderly; "but—oh, Guy, what a strange master it is that your right arm is not in its socket, and I never notice it when I look at him."

She had taken hold of his white muscular arm, and was gazing intently on a strange tattoo mark, skilfully wrought on the inside of his upper right arm, and consisting of a number of feathers and a kind of hawk which was mounted on a small shield.

A dark cloud seemed to pass over his face as he spoke, but it vanished as quickly as it came.

"What a son of a parent's," he said.

"Only wish I could get rid of it. But I cannot without disfiguring myself, so I am forced to let it remain."

Then, as if ashamed of his action before Mrs. Raymond and her daughter, he muttered some inarticulate address to them and went on.

He might have imagined the thoughts which had entered his mind as she spoke of those simple marks.

They talked and laughed, and otherwise acted as lovers will do as they approached the house, ignorant of the dark vengeful eyes fixed upon them, dark eyes whose owner glared at them from behind the safe concealment of the curtain room opening on to the garden.

He was driven there in the dog cart, and the grueling, having received instructions at what time to fetch him on his return from Philadelphia, drove off, the skittish mare soon taking the light vehicle out of sight.

It was very quiet at the station when Guy L'Estrange entered, no sign of bustle or preparation of any kind.

A porter, after a few moments, came forward, touching his hat.

"Good evening, London!"

"No, Mason, I want to go to Barchester," said Guy.

"Train gone this ten minutes, sir," said the man, "not another until 5 o'clock, and you'll be well off and change on to the other line."

"Train gone!" repeated Guy in some irritation, as he took out his watch.

"Confound it, it is twelve minutes past. No, I shan't get you to thank me. I shall be too late for my appointment to do. Good afternoon, Mason; I shall stroll home, and try luck again to-morrow morning."

As Guy L'Estrange began retracing his steps along the road, the face of nature seemed to have changed—at any rate, to him.

He was driven there in the dog cart, and the grueling, having received instructions at what time to fetch him on his return from Philadelphia, drove off, the skittish mare soon taking the light vehicle out of sight.

It was very quiet at the station when Guy L'Estrange entered, no sign of bustle or preparation of any kind.

A porter, after a few moments, came forward, touching his hat.

"Good evening, London!"

"No, Mason, I want to go to Barchester," said Guy.

"Train gone this ten minutes, sir," said the man, "not another until 5 o'clock, and you'll be well off and change on to the other line."

"Train gone!" repeated Guy in some irritation, as he took out his watch.

"Confound it, it is twelve minutes past. No, I shan't get you to thank me. I shall be too late for my appointment to do. Good afternoon, Mason; I shall stroll home, and try luck again to-morrow morning."

As Guy L'Estrange began retracing his steps along the road, the face of nature seemed to have changed—at any rate, to him.

He was driven there in the dog cart, and the grueling, having received instructions at what time to fetch him on his return from Philadelphia, drove off, the skittish mare soon taking the light vehicle out of sight.

It was very quiet at the station when Guy L'Estrange entered, no sign of bustle or preparation of any kind.

A porter, after a few moments, came forward, touching his hat.

"Good evening, London!"

"No, Mason, I want to go to Barchester," said Guy.

"Train gone this ten minutes, sir," said the man, "not another until 5 o'clock, and you'll be well off and change on to the other line."

"Train gone!" repeated Guy in some irritation, as he took out his watch.

"Confound it, it is twelve minutes past. No, I shan't get you to thank me. I shall be too late for my appointment to do. Good afternoon, Mason; I shall stroll home, and try luck again to-morrow morning."

As Guy L'Estrange began retracing his steps along the road, the face of nature seemed to have changed—at any rate, to him.

He was driven there in the dog cart, and the grueling, having received instructions at what time to fetch him on his return from Philadelphia, drove off, the skittish mare soon taking the light vehicle out of sight.

It was very quiet at the station when Guy L'Estrange entered, no sign of bustle or preparation of any kind.

A porter, after a few moments, came forward, touching his hat.

"Good evening, London!"

"No, Mason, I want to go to Barchester," said Guy.

"Train gone this ten minutes, sir," said the man, "not another until 5 o'clock, and you'll be well off and change on to the other line."

"Train gone!" repeated Guy in some irritation, as he took out his watch.

"Confound it, it is twelve minutes past. No, I shan't get you to thank me. I shall be too late for my appointment to do. Good afternoon, Mason; I shall stroll home, and try luck again to-morrow morning."

As Guy L'Estrange began retracing his steps along the road, the face of nature seemed to have changed—at any rate, to him.

He was driven there in the dog cart, and the grueling, having received instructions at what time to fetch him on his return from Philadelphia, drove off, the skittish mare soon taking the light vehicle out of sight.

It was very quiet at the station when Guy L'Estrange entered, no sign of bustle or preparation of any kind.

A porter, after a few moments, came forward, touching his hat.

"Good evening, London!"

"No, Mason, I want to go to Barchester," said Guy.

"Train gone this ten minutes, sir," said the man, "not another until 5 o'clock, and you'll be well off and change on to the other line."

"Train gone!" repeated Guy in some irritation, as he took out his watch.

"Confound it, it is twelve minutes past. No, I shan't get you to thank me. I shall be too late for my appointment to do. Good afternoon, Mason; I shall stroll home, and try luck again to-morrow morning."

As Guy L'Estrange began retracing his steps along the road, the face of nature seemed to have changed—at any rate, to him.

He was driven there in the dog cart, and the grueling, having received instructions at what time to fetch him on his return from Philadelphia, drove off, the skittish mare soon taking the light vehicle out of sight.

It was very quiet at the station when Guy L'Estrange entered, no sign of bustle or preparation of any kind.

A porter, after a few moments, came forward, touching his hat.

"Good evening, London!"

"No, Mason, I want to go to Barchester," said Guy.

"Train gone this ten minutes, sir," said the man, "not another until 5 o'clock, and you'll be well off and change on to the other line."

"Train gone!" repeated Guy in some irritation, as he took out his watch.

"Confound it, it is twelve minutes past. No, I shan't get you to thank me. I shall be too late for my appointment to do. Good afternoon, Mason; I shall stroll home, and try luck again to-morrow morning."

As Guy L'Estrange began retracing his steps along the road, the face of nature seemed to have changed—at any rate, to him.

He was driven there in the dog cart, and the grueling, having received instructions at what time to fetch him on his return from Philadelphia, drove off, the skittish mare soon taking the light vehicle out of sight.

It was very quiet at the station when Guy L'Estrange entered, no sign of bustle or preparation of any kind.

A porter, after a few moments, came forward, touching his hat.

"Good evening, London!"

"No, Mason, I want to go to Barchester," said Guy.

"Train gone this ten minutes, sir," said the man, "not another until 5 o'clock, and you'll be well off and change on to the other line."

"Train gone!" repeated Guy in some irritation, as he took out his watch.

"Confound it, it is twelve minutes past. No, I shan't get you to thank me. I shall be too late for my appointment to do. Good afternoon, Mason; I shall stroll home, and try luck again to-morrow morning."

As Guy L'Estrange began retracing his steps along the road, the face of nature seemed to have changed—at any rate, to him.

He was driven there in the dog cart, and the grueling, having received instructions at what time to fetch him on his return from Philadelphia, drove off, the skittish mare soon taking the light vehicle out of sight.

It was very quiet at the station when Guy L'Estrange entered, no sign of bustle or preparation of any kind.

A porter, after a few moments, came forward, touching his hat.

"Good evening, London!"

"No, Mason, I want to go to Barchester," said Guy.

"Train gone this ten minutes, sir," said the man, "not another until 5 o'clock, and you'll be well off and change on to the other line."

"Train gone!" repeated Guy in some irritation, as he took out his watch.

"Confound it, it is twelve minutes past. No, I shan't get you to thank me. I shall be too late for my appointment to do. Good afternoon, Mason; I shall stroll home, and try luck again to-morrow morning."

As Guy L'Estrange began retracing his steps along the road, the face of nature seemed to have changed—at any rate, to him.

He was driven there in the dog cart, and the grueling, having received instructions at what time to fetch him on his return from Philadelphia, drove off, the skittish mare soon taking the light vehicle out of sight.

It was very quiet at the station when Guy L'Estrange entered, no sign of bustle or

BRECKENRIDGE NEWS.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 28, 1890.

JNO. D. BABBAGE

E. S. L. & T. Local Time Card.

| | |
|----------------------------------|-----------|
| Mail and Express going West..... | 9:30 a.m. |
| Express " " East..... | 5:30 p.m. |
| Mixed " " East..... | 6:30 p.m. |
| Mixed " " West..... | 9:30 a.m. |

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For County Judge, Thos. Addison.
For County Attorney, Judge Miles Board.
For County Clerk, J. S. Monroe.
For Sheriff, J. S. DeJeserette.
For County Sheriff's Schools, Jas. W. Miller.
For Justice, John Slaton.
For County Assessor, Len Cashman.
For County Surveyor, F. C. McCoy.
For Coroner, W. R. Pendleton.

TO OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

Get the news and get all the news and nothing but the news — From Daud's Celebrated Maxima in Journalism.

We find that the Louisville chemists know and recognize Dr. A. A. Simon's ability as a chemist.

This Administration seems to be having a good deal of trouble over the appointment of a postmaster for Louisville.

The Legislature passed a bill appropriating $30,000 for an exhibition of Kentucky's resources at the World's Fair.

The election of Carlisle to succeed the late Senator Beck has been induced by the press of the country, irrespective of party.

The Democrats in Covington district are going to have a hot time in selecting a candidate to fill Mr. Carlisle's place in Congress.

The great problem solver, Babidge, who lived in London about 1839, was eccentric. He would get mad if you called him knave.

In Proctor Knott gets into the field for Congress the Hartford Herald will doubtless let up on its old chestnut, "that promise," and begin to wail another song.

We have understood that a large number of prominent Democrats in this district have decided to make a call upon Hon. J. Proctor Knott to become a candidate for Congress.

At last the famous Green River Island question has been settled by the supreme court. The lawsuit has been on hand for many years and it is finally settled that the island belongs to Kentucky.

The McKinley tariff bill was put thru' the present Congress with a whoop. It is a Republican measure, adding many millions of dollars to be wrung from the people in the way of taxes for the benefit of the rich monopolists and the Republi-can bosses, who seem to have things their own way in this country at present.

The two new Bishops elected by the General Conference at St Louis are both good men. Rev. Atticus Haygood has been president of Emory College, Georgia, and is a son of the South, the cause of education and the South's people. Dr. O. P. Fitzgerald, the other new Bishop, is the distinguished editor of the Christian Advocate. There are a few better writers than Dr. Fitzgerald, and the Advocate under his charge has been equally successful. No doubt the selections will be satisfactory to the entire church.

Never before were the poor classes of this country so completely at the mercy of the Republic's boses, and seeing and seeming to be made the slaves of so vast an army of mounted aristocrats as infect certain quarters. The passage of the McKinley Tariff Bill naturally confirms the belief that the Republic's partisans, who have given themselves to the traditional rulers of protection, regardless of principle and the rights of the people. Indeed the outlook for prosperity is not very flattering except for that class who are allowed to ride along in the boat with Quay, Wanamaker, Gould and Company.

Lipscroft's Magazine is a brilliant and eminently readable number. The complete novel is contributed by Mrs. E. Stickney, and is entitled "Circumstantial Evidence." It is the story of the misunderstandings, jealousies, and final reconciliation of a young couple told in a natural and charming style. The story is full of good situations, and here and there verges upon the tragic, but "all's well that ends well." The character of the impetuous, passionate "Nita," the young wife, is especially drawn, as is also that of her husband. Although it is very bright and interesting story, and though no moral or lesson is to be learned, it certainly points out, and a good, strong, healthy one, too.

The State Convention to nominate a candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals meets in Louisville today. It has been decided that the convention which this county would be contested in the Convention, but when the matter is properly understood there will not be any grounds for a squabble. In the Convention which met on the 17th there was a majority of Adams men present, but it was decided to adjourn and understand in the convention that if a majority of the people of Breckinridge voted to instruct the delegates, it should be done subject to the action of the mass convention on the 19th. This being the case and the convention of the 19th being overwhelmingly for Madden, he will be entitled to the vote of the county in the convention today.

We doubt if there is a better chemist than Dr. Simon.

YESTERDAY was the day fixed by the Legislature for a sine die adjournment.

Dr. A. A. Simon's tests of our salt water have been verified by other chemists.

If they don't stock the cards on Madison today he will be the next Clerk of the Court of Appeals.

Judge Joseph Lewis secured enough interested votes to give him the nomination for Judge of the Court of Appeals. This does away with holding a convention at Lebanon.

We extend our congratulations to Editor W. N. Underwood, of the Cannon Enquirer, who has recently been elected one of that flourishing city. His election means that that city is getting out of the ruts.

ANALYTICAL tests of our salt water have been made by chemists. Its quality and strength are settled beyond all cavil, and it is found to surpass, and is not surpassed. Come on with your soda-ash, glass and soap factories.

The great Democratic victories in Indiana in the May elections have claimed Harrison's attention when no advice or counsel of friends could claim it. His idea of an extension of patronage in his native state might accomplish something before the fall elections if the Republican failures were entirely due to his neglect of his friends there. But such is not the case. The Indiana farmers have shown that they have enough of high tariff and the tariff idea is the one that will confront the g. o. p. in Hoosier benevolence.

A GOOD ROAD LAW.

The Legislature of Ohio recently passed a road law which seems to be a very good one. Its operations will be watched with interest outside of the State as well as in, for there is coming to be a pretty general recognition of the fact that there is a great need so important to the agricultural as well as to the industrial.

Mr. J. C. Petrie will return home today. There will be services at his church next Sunday.

Judge Miles Board and W. K. Barnes went to Louisville yesterday to attend the State convention.

Mr. J. R. Johnson went to Louisville Monday. He will take in the Democratic convention and Barnum's circus.

The city hall is about completed. Six hundred chairs have been ordered to seat it for the exhibition of June 11th.

Prof. Scott arrived last Sunday to take charge of the iron band. The boys are in shape to make a good band.

Mr. Mike Lydian was in town Monday. He says the wheat crop will be very short and precious.

Mr. M. H. McGehee and D. W. Lewis are handling the Pa. American coffee and tea pot in this country.

Goo. Yeakle & Co.'s store was so crowded last Saturday that they could hardly wait on their customers.

The old town was alive with people last Saturday. Can't keep people away from a good and cheap place to trade.

Misses Fannie Rhodes of Paynesville, and Annie Held, of Flaherty, were the guests of Miss Katie McAllister last week.

Misses O'Bryan and Smith of Louisville, were down last week looking after the Consolidated Gas Company's buildings.

Miss Lisa Johnson, of New Albany, left after several days visit to her cousin Miss Mary Fairleigh, returned home.

Elvis Wimp took a lot of men out to Cumberland Gap last Saturday to work on the railroad for T. E. Pitt & Co., contractors.

There was a called meeting of the city council last night to settle the contested election case between Charley Beard and Rose Eskridge in the second ward.

The new city hall will seat some six or seven hundred people. It will be far superior to the court room for holding county conventions and all kind of public meetings.

Rev. Gregors, pastor of the church at White Mills, Harrison county, is in the city, stopping at Mr. Robert Smith's. He is holding a series of meetings at the Baptist Church.

Rev. W. K. Piner, of Louisville, will deliver a lecture at Webster on June 3d. Subject, "Man and Mammon." For the benefit of the new Methodist church at that place. Admission 25cts, children 10cts.

Capt. A. J. Gross stated to a number of friends here last Saturday that he could not become a candidate for the Constitutional Convention. A strong call has been made upon him from parties to stand in the Convention, but he says he will not submit his claims before the Democratic convention.

There was a called meeting of the city council last night to settle the contested election case between Charley Beard and Rose Eskridge in the second ward.

The new city hall will seat some six or seven hundred people. It will be far superior to the court room for holding county conventions and all kind of public meetings.

Rev. Gregors, pastor of the church at White Mills, Harrison county, is in the city, stopping at Mr. Robert Smith's. He is holding a series of meetings at the Baptist Church.

Rev. W. K. Piner, of Louisville, will deliver a lecture at Webster on June 3d. Subject, "Man and Mammon." For the benefit of the new Methodist church at that place. Admission 25cts, children 10cts.

Capt. A. J. Gross stated to a number of friends here last Saturday that he could not become a candidate for the Constitutional Convention. A strong call has been made upon him from parties to stand in the Convention, but he says he will not submit his claims before the Democratic convention.

The first money for the sufferers in the tornado district was received by W. K. Barnes yesterday in a check for $1,125. The check, however, was drawn to D. K. Barnes, and will have to be returned to Frankfort for correction. As soon as this can be done, Mr. Barnes will be ready to distribute the money.

Prof. Scott is in the city and will arrange some excellent music for the drama of the 11th June. One of the places that our club will play during the week will be Tom's Cabin. With a large hall and new scenery, the troupe will be given a chance to do their best.

Mr. W. K. Barnes, chairman of the committee to distribute the funds to the tornado sufferers, has received a check from the State Treasurer for the sum of $1,125. This amount will be paid out to those in the storm district whose claims are fully substantiated.

Great elec-tionning scheme. Gentlemen, it is hard for you good fellows to understand what we have seen in the campaign. The people of Breckinridge have sold their One Hundred Dollars for any cause that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Drugists, 75¢.

UNIVERSITY QUALIFIED.

The Breckinridge News will be pleased so learn that there is at least one dread disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Cataract. Hall's Cataract is the only positive cure known to man. It is a surgical fraternity. Call him to see him.

The story is full of good situations, and here and there verges upon the tragic, but "all's well that ends well." The character of the impetuous, passionate "Nita," the young wife, is especially drawn, as is also that of her husband. Although it is very bright and interesting story, and though no moral or lesson is to be learned, it certainly points out, and a good, strong, healthy one, too.

The State Convention to nominate a candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals meets in Louisville today. It has been decided that the convention which this county would be contested in the Convention, but when the matter is properly understood there will not be any grounds for a squabble. In the Convention which met on the 17th there was a majority of Adams men present, but it was decided to adjourn and understand in the convention that if a majority of the people of Breckinridge voted to instruct the delegates, it should be done subject to the action of the mass convention on the 19th. This being the case and the convention of the 19th being overwhelmingly for Madden, he will be entitled to the vote of the county in the convention today.

Have your Job work done at this office in the latest style and designs.

HARDSBURG DEPARTMENT.

V. G. HARRASKE - Editor

TIME TABLE No. 1.

West Bound East Bound

DAILY EXCEPT SUNDAY.

SUNDAY DAILY EXCEPT SUNDAY.

11:30 a.m. Lv. Irvington..... Ar. 9:00 a.m.

11:30 a.m. Irvington Junction..... Ar. 9:00 a.m.

1:05 p.m. Marion..... Ar. 8:00 a.m.

1:05 p.m. Harrison..... Ar. 7:00 a.m.

1:05 p.m. Hardinsburg..... Ar. 7:00 a.m.

Hats for spring wear at WITT'S.

Straw hats for men at all prices at J. A. Witt's.

Mr. Addison, of Holt, was in the city last Friday.

Mr. Frank Haswell is putting a veranda on his house.

Mr. Horace Yates, of Leitchfield, was in the city Sunday.

Mr. Felix Monroe and wife went to Cloperton-Sunday.

Dolph Board got pretty badly hurt at the depot last Monday.

Mr. Hitchcock, road master, of the L. & W. has gone to Ohio.

Mr. Edward Thompson is building a new residence in the east end of the city.

The council elected Mr. J. G. Haswell attorney for the city at their last meeting.

Men's suits that have been paying $12 and $15 for you can buy at Witt's for $10.

J. A. Witt has some nice noisy suits and a lot of odd pants at Wheeler prices.

Our people don't go to Cloperton every more to attend a circus; they go East, you know.

The town will be cleaned out next Saturday. Most everybody's going to see Barnum.

Miss Luisa Lewis spent last week with her grandfather, Mr. J. R. Patterson, at Guston.

Moses D. S. Richardson and Dr. Jno. F. Clayton, of Cloperton, were in town last Saturday.

Misses Sallie Basket and Katie Burkhardt, of Bewleyville, are the guests of Mrs. J. A. Judd.

Misses Hattie & Lizzie Elberts, of Laconia, spent Monday in town, the guests of Mrs. Ed Gentry.

The birth of Mr. D. W. Fairleigh, May 23rd at Louisville, a fine young daughter.

Mr. Mike Lydian was in town Monday. He says the wheat crop will be very short and precious.

Mr. M. H. McGehee and D. W. Lewis are handling the Pa. American coffee and tea pot in this country.

Goo. Yeakle & Co.'s store was so crowded last Saturday that they could hardly wait on their customers.

The old town was alive with people last Saturday. Can't keep people away from a good and cheap place to trade.

Misses Fannie Rhodes of Paynesville, and Annie Held, of Flaherty, were the guests of Miss Katie McAllister last week.

Misses O'Bryan and Smith of Louisville, were down last week looking after the Consolidated Gas Company's buildings.

Within thirty days, the amount of freight from us will be a maximum of two mills per ton.

Mr. Mike Lydian was in town Monday. He says the wheat crop will be very short and precious.

Mr. M. H. McGehee and D. W. Lewis are handling the Pa. American coffee and tea pot in this country.

Goo. Yeakle & Co.'s store was so crowded last Saturday that they could hardly wait on their customers.

Elvis Wimp took a lot of men out to Cumberland Gap last Saturday to work on the railroad for T. E. Pitt & Co., contractors.

Elvis Wimp opened the doors of his house last Tuesday evening to the young folks and they had a delightful social dance. It was given as a surprise to his wife.

There was a called meeting of the city council last night to settle the contested election case between Charley Beard and Rose Eskridge in the second ward.

The new city hall will seat some six or seven hundred people. It will be far superior to the court room for holding county conventions and all kind of public meetings.

Rev. Gregors, pastor of the church at White Mills, Harrison county, is in the city, stopping at Mr. Robert Smith's. He is holding a series of meetings at the Baptist Church.

Rev. W. K. Piner, of Louisville, will deliver a lecture at Webster on June 3d. Subject, "Man and Mammon." For the benefit of the new Methodist church at that place. Admission 25cts, children 10cts.

Captain A. J. Gross stated to a number of friends here last Saturday that he could not become a candidate for the Constitutional Convention. A strong call has been made upon him from parties to stand in the Convention, but he says he will not submit his claims before the Democratic convention.

There was a called meeting of the city council last night to settle the contested election case between Charley Beard and Rose Eskridge in the second ward.

The new city hall will seat some six or seven hundred people. It will be far superior to the court room for holding county conventions and all kind of public meetings.

Rev. Gregors, pastor of the church at White Mills, Harrison county, is in the city, stopping at Mr. Robert Smith's. He is holding a series of meetings at the Baptist Church.

Rev. W. K. Piner, of Louisville, will deliver a lecture at Webster on June 3d. Subject, "Man and Mammon." For the benefit of the new Methodist church at that place. Admission 25cts, children 10cts.

Captain A. J. Gross stated to a number of friends here last Saturday that he could not become a candidate for the Constitutional Convention. A strong call has been made upon him from parties to stand in the Convention, but he says he will not submit his claims before the Democratic convention.

There was a called meeting of the city council last night to settle the contested election case between Charley Beard and Rose Eskridge in the second ward.

The new city hall will seat some six or seven hundred people. It will be far superior to the court room for holding county conventions and all kind of public meetings.

Rev. Gregors, pastor of the church at White Mills, Harrison county, is in the city, stopping at Mr. Robert Smith's. He is holding a series of meetings at the Baptist Church.

Rev. W. K. Piner, of Louisville, will deliver a lecture at Webster on June 3d. Subject, "Man and Mammon." For the benefit of the new Methodist church at that place. Admission 25cts, children 10cts.

Captain A. J. Gross stated to a number of friends here last Saturday that he could not become a candidate for the Constitutional Convention. A strong call has been made upon him from parties to stand in the Convention, but he says he will not submit his claims before the Democratic convention.

There was a called meeting of the city council last night to settle the contested election case between Charley Beard and Rose Eskridge in the second ward.

The new city hall will seat some six or seven hundred people. It will be far superior to the court room for holding county conventions and all kind of public meetings.

Rev. Gregors, pastor of the church at White Mills, Harrison county, is in the city, stopping at Mr. Robert Smith's. He is holding a series of meetings at the Baptist Church.

Rev. W. K. Piner, of Louisville, will deliver a lecture at Webster on June 3d. Subject, "Man and Mammon." For the benefit of the new Methodist church at that place. Admission 25cts, children 10cts.

Captain A. J. Gross stated to a number of friends here last Saturday that he could not become a candidate for the Constitutional Convention. A strong call has been made upon him from parties to stand in the Convention, but he says he will not submit his claims before the Democratic convention.

There was a called meeting of the city council last night to settle the contested election case between Charley Beard and Rose Eskridge in the second ward.

The new city hall will seat some six or seven hundred people. It will be far superior to the court room for holding county conventions and all kind of public meetings.

Rev. Gregors, pastor of the church at White Mills, Harrison county, is in the city, stopping at Mr. Robert Smith's. He is holding a series of meetings at the Baptist Church.

Rev. W. K. Piner, of Louisville, will deliver a lecture at Webster on June 3d. Subject, "Man and Mammon." For the benefit of the new Methodist church at that place. Admission 25cts, children 10cts.

Captain A. J. Gross stated to a number of friends here last Saturday that he could not become a candidate for the Constitutional Convention. A strong call has been made upon him from parties to stand in the Convention, but he says he will not submit his claims before the Democratic convention.

There was a called meeting of the city council last night to settle the contested election case between Charley Beard and Rose Eskridge in the second ward.

The new city hall will seat some six or seven hundred people. It will be far superior to the court room for holding county conventions and all kind of public meetings.

Rev. Gregors, pastor of the church at White Mills, Harrison county, is in the city, stopping at Mr. Robert Smith's. He is holding a series of meetings at the Baptist Church.

Rev. W. K. Piner, of Louisville, will deliver a lecture at Webster on June 3d. Subject, "Man and Mammon." For the benefit of the new Methodist church at that place. Admission 25cts, children 10cts.

Captain A. J. Gross stated to a number of friends here last Saturday that he could not become a candidate for the Constitutional Convention. A strong call has been made upon him from parties to stand in the Convention, but he says he will not submit his claims before the Democratic convention.

There was a called meeting of the city council last night to settle the contested election case between Charley Beard and Rose Eskridge in the second ward.

The new city hall will seat some six or seven hundred people. It will be far superior to the court room for holding county conventions and all kind of public meetings.

Rev. Gregors, pastor of the church at White Mills, Harrison county, is in the city, stopping at Mr. Robert Smith's. He is holding a series of meetings at the Baptist Church.

Rev. W. K. Piner, of Louisville, will deliver a lecture at Webster on June 3d. Subject, "Man and Mammon." For the benefit of the new Methodist church at that place. Admission 25cts, children 10cts.

Captain A. J. Gross stated to a number of friends here last Saturday that he could not become a candidate for the Constitutional Convention. A strong call has been made upon him from parties to stand in the Convention, but he says he will not submit his claims before the Democratic convention.

There was a called meeting of the city council last night to settle the contested election case between Charley Beard and Rose Eskridge in the second ward.

The new city hall will seat some six or seven hundred people. It will be far superior to the court room for holding county conventions and all kind of public meetings.

Rev. Gregors, pastor of the church at White Mills, Harrison county, is in the city, stopping at Mr. Robert Smith's. He is holding a series of meetings at the Baptist Church.

Rev. W. K. Piner, of Louisville, will deliver a lecture at Webster on June 3d. Subject, "Man and Mammon." For the benefit of the new Methodist church at that place. Admission 25cts, children 10cts.

Captain A. J. Gross stated to a number of friends here last Saturday that he could not become a candidate for the Constitutional Convention. A strong call has been made upon him from parties to stand in the Convention, but he says he will not submit his claims before the Democratic convention.

There was a called meeting of the city council last night to settle the contested election case between Charley Beard and Rose Eskridge in the second ward.

The new city hall will seat some six or seven hundred people. It will be far superior to the court room for holding county conventions and all kind of public meetings.

Rev. Gregors, pastor of the church at White Mills, Harrison county, is in the city, stopping at Mr. Robert Smith's. He is holding a series of meetings at the Baptist Church.

Rev. W. K. Piner, of Louisville, will deliver a lecture at Webster on June 3d. Subject, "Man and Mammon." For the benefit of the new Methodist church at that place. Admission 25cts, children 10cts.

Captain A. J. Gross stated to a number of friends here last Saturday that he could not become a candidate for the Constitutional Convention. A strong call has been made upon him from parties to stand in the Convention, but he says he will not submit his claims before the Democratic convention.

There was a called meeting of the city council last night to settle the contested election case between Charley Beard and Rose Eskridge in the second ward.

The new city hall will seat some six or seven hundred people. It will be far superior to the court room for holding county conventions and all kind of public meetings.

Rev. Gregors, pastor of the church at White Mills, Harrison county, is in the city, stopping at Mr. Robert Smith's. He is holding a series of meetings at the Baptist Church.

Rev. W. K. Piner, of Louisville, will deliver a lecture at Webster on June 3d. Subject, "Man and Mammon." For the benefit of the new Methodist church at that place. Admission 25cts, children 10cts.

Captain A. J. Gross stated to a number of friends here last Saturday that he could not become a candidate for the Constitutional Convention. A strong call has been made upon him from parties to stand in the Convention, but he says he will not submit his claims before the Democratic convention.

There was a called meeting of the city council last night to settle the contested election case between Charley Beard and Rose Eskridge in the second ward.

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver & Bowels, cleanses the system effectively, dispels rheumatic aches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and accepted by the stomach, prompt in its action and safe, which in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is $1.00 in 30c and $1 bottle for all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will promptly fit for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
100 CHAMBERS ST., NEW YORK, N.Y.

LOCAL BREVIETIES.

"The man who reads the paper And sponges as he goes, Will never reach that happy land Where milk and honey grows."

The L. St. & T. pay down passed year.

There will be several houses go up here next month.

L. D. Addison returned from Evansville last week.

Mrs. V. G. Babage was in the city last week, shopping.

Mr. J. W. Chappell, of Union Star, has been granted a pension.

Born, May 23d to the wife of Mr. Will Barrett, Louisville, a daughter.

Tobinson is shipping large quantities of strawberries to Owensboro.

Everybody's getting ready to go down to the Circus at Owensboro next Monday

The L. St. & T. have added two handsome new coaches to their day train.

H. L. Morton is at Addison, Ky., unloading the lumber for his roller mills. The walls are complete.

Life size portrait, in crayon or oil, from $5 to $20—Mrs. Johnson's studio, in Singer machine office, Clarendon.

The new siding at Addison, Ky., is being put up with a large force of men and will hold several cars that will be in use this week.

The L. St. & T. railroad will sell tickets to the Democratic Convention for one and one-third fare or $2.95 round trip from this city.

Mr. Alfred Oehle has bought the Cato Satterfield lot opposite Mr. H. V. Dunbar's. He will tear away the old house and replace it with a new one.

Rev. W. C. Brandon, Louisville, will lecture in the Methodist church at Webster Tuesday night, June 3d, for the benefit of the church. Everybody invited.

Mrs. S. L. Sulzer is still lingering in Cincinnati, and shipping goods by the steamboat load. There are more novelities in dress goods this season than ever before.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Now let somebody take hold of the planing mill and keep the money at home that is sent away for building material. A planing mill rightly managed would be one of the best paying institutions in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Oehle gave a delightful musical entertainment in honor of their daughter, Miss Ethel, Monday night. There were a good many young folks present and all seemed to have a jolly time.

All persons indebted to the old firm R. E. Moorman & Co., are requested to call and settle their accounts. All accounts not settled by June 10th will be placed in the hands of an officer for collection.

Peck's Bed Boy never could understand why people would doubt the virtue of Garter's chicken cholera cure, when it is a fact that the money will be refunded, if the remedy fails to give entire satisfaction, by G. W. Short.

Children's Day was appropriately observed at Fisher's Hall Sunday. The music was splendid and the recitations by the children were appropriate and well delivered. The program was interesting and thorough and highly enjoyed by all.

The fire show on the river bank given by Mr. Chas. P. Blatt, the cannon-ball catcher, on May 30th, is worth coming a hundred miles to see. Mr. Blatt being the only person in the world who dares attempt this reckless feat. Don't forget the day and date, Friday, May 30.

Mr. Anil Oehle bought a vacant lot on Oak street, between Golf and Spring, for $175 and paid cash, leaving back 130 feet for $175. He will build at once four cottages for rent. This is just the beginning of the building boom. Other parties are looking out for good locations and we may expect within the next thirty days the erection of twenty or more houses. Let the good work proceed.

Editor No. 25 ran into John Scott, at the crossing near the pier just above town Monday evening, smashing the wagon to pieces, killing one male and injuring his son, Logan, who was driving the team. The boy says in coming down the hill to the crossing the wagon made so much noise in running over the rocks that he did not hear the engine in time to check his wheels. It was purely carelessness and no blame is attached to either party.

Attention is called to Hon. D. Hambleton's card in this issue. Mr. Hambleton has opened an office, anywhere on the street, for the purchase and sale of real estate. There is no man in town better posted about real estate and its values than Mr. Hambleton.

Persons having business to do, those who want to buy, cannot do better than to call at his office in his hands. He is not a speculator nor a manipulator of schemes, but is working for the interests of the town. All he wants is a reasonable commission on business done.

Last week Hon. D. R. Murray had occasion to write Hon. D. Hambleton, of the Mineral Center Gas Company, with the sales-tax factor. As the letter contained some very good news in regard to the plant and was likewise of general interest to all our citizens, Mr. Hambleton took pleasure in showing it around. On the back of the envelope was written, apparently in Mr. Murray's hand writing, "and I wish you would print it in your paper." and everybody took it to heart.

Those who visit us are taking in the situation and it is now generally conceded that the prospect of Cloverport's future is as brilliant as the glow of the gas-lights of our streets.

Capital is beginning to recognize that there is a field for its successful investment. Its representatives are coming among us, and already they are making arrangements to have the tide turning towards us. Population is coming in and soon the march of our progress has set in.

Progress.
It is very important in this age of vast material progress that a remedy be pleasing to the taste and to the eye, easily taken, acceptable to the stomach and healthy in its nature and effects.

Positively these qualities, Syrup of Figs is the one perfect laxative and most gentle diuretic known.

BRECKENRIDGE News.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 28, 1860.

STEPHENSPORT.

Dr. Coyn, of Dakota, is visiting old friends here.

A number of our young people will attend Barnum's big show at Louisville.

The Rev. Gregory, of the Christian church, delivered two sermons here last week.

Drs. Marshall and Goldstein and Mr. James Lay attended the races at Louisville last week.

Mrs. James Lay, who had been absent on a visit to her parents, in Newburg, Ind., for some weeks past, returned home Saturday.

Miss Mollie Claycomb closed her school here on Friday of last week and so far as we know, gave perfect satisfaction to all her patrons.

Some of our young men called out a force of help and cleared the town cemetery of its thousand thistles. It is much improved in appearance, but it needs a few more. That's right, young men, be ever engaged in work. You all will want your good work kept.

Miss Jessie Claycomb and the Mr. Williams were united by the hand of God on Wednesday night at the Baptist church, Rev. W. C. Brandon, of Cloverport, officiating.

The happy couple left immediately for Cloverport their future home.

Men of Judgement and Sense Did It.

A great many people ridiculed the idea of C. D. Kenny's donation of $1,000 for the benefit of the hospital. The men of judgement and sense up there insisted on doing it, and subsequent events have proved their wisdom. The pay-roll of those shops is now over five thousand dollars per month, and steadily increasing. It has added largely to the population, and will be the means of increasing our trade and making us a better place to live in.

This should be a lesson to Cannelton, and convince our citizens that they must do something themselves if they expect to attract outside capital and population.—Cannelton Enquirer.

Worth Knowing.

Hughes' Toxic.—The old time, reliable remedy for Fever and Ague. Reputation earned by Thirty years success. You can depend upon it. Tax it! Durogues Mayne it.

LOCAL BREVIETIES.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Skillman gave an elegant reception at their handsome residence last night in honor of their son, Mr. Chase B. Skillman and his beautiful bride, nee Miss Mary Young, of Morganfield. An elegant lunch was served from 8:30 to 11 m. There were a number of guests present, including Mr. Owenson, Morganfield, Holt and his wife. The event was a splendid success in every particular. The early hour at which we go to press prevents a more extended notice. We stop the press, however, to extend our congratulations and best wishes to Mr. Skillman and his accomplished young bride.

MEETING OF THE DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE.

They Decide to call a Convention to Nominate a Candidate for the Constitutional Convention.

The Democratic committee met in Hardinsburg May 24th, in conformity with a call of the State Central Committee, for the purpose of taking steps toward the manner of nominating a candidate for the Constitutional Convention.

The following resolutions were passed:

Judge Jas. Hambleton, Clarendon; Jno. Cooke, Custer; J. T. F. Owen, Rockvale; G. M. Barkley, Stephenston; G. S. Wilson, Hudsonville.

Next Mr. Beard read the following letter from the State Central Committee:

"DEAR Sir:—The information reaches me that the Constitutional Convention Bill has been signed by the Governor, and is therefore a law. In consequence thereof it becomes important to at once take steps to nominate Democratic candidates for delegates to the Convention, to be elected at the coming August election. As the complexion of the Convention will be largely Democratic, consequences of the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in anticipation of the passage of the law, taken steps to make a nomination of our legislative district, the members of the convention will be held responsible for the result of the Convention's deliberations, it becomes vastly important to the party, that wise, and true men be selected by our party. If, therefore, your committee has not already, in

Brepped Stitches.
Always have towels of linen. Do not be tempted to tying the cheaper cotton, which is very costly to temper and stretch, and at least twice a disagreeable hint behind it is a good idea.

Miss Louise Imogene Grimes, the poet, thinks nothing of walking twenty miles. She measures her verses with a pedometer.

One pound of flour, a tablespoonful of sugar and three quarts of water boiled together with newspapers till the consistency of putty makes a good filling for flower cracks.

A beautiful woman pleases the eye, a good woman pleases the heart; one is a jewel, the other a trinket.

Miss Etika Gervier lately sang in a local concert for charity at Bologna. If her voice is gone the little prima seems to have a new lease on life.

Miss Jeannette M. Thurber contemplates building a great national must in Washington.

Jet streams, in disfavor, are now seen glistening in fluffy hair, and any thing fanciful in the way of hair ornaments that is not too high is allowable, not too low, not too tight, but, on a part of the bonnet or dress.

To relieve the monotony of dark costumes, Parisian ladies are wearing scarlet and emerald yellow, black velvet with red bows, their jackets with open fronts. The vests have high collars, like a gentleman's stock, or are worn with a cravat of the same silk, tied in a huge bow.

Sensible Ways of Dressing the Hair.

Another thing in which most women interested in the hair is that it is drawn straight up, the top of the head. It is better to have the hair drawn in a large coffee cup, and do their best to make all their heads exactly alike, regardless of the distinctive style and characteristics of each face. Girls are very fond at some pains to discover what suits her best, and then remain faithful to it, with occasional modifications to conform the phases of fashionabile headgear. Do you know with me?

I fancy that many people are getting tired of having the hair all combed up in front of the head. It is better to have the hair drawn in straight up, the top of the head is better to be used for a single effect by no means becoming or pretty. As a rule, I think the hair that grows about the temples is the prettiest, and when it is drawn straight back and fastened to the puffs now so much worn, I have seen half a dozen decided changes in the last six months. They do not indicate a return of that old fashion. I saw two at Sandown by fashionably dressed women.—Madge in London Truth.

Thwarting the Moths.

If one has a cedar chest to store wool in, a barrel should be stored in a trunk or floor bars. The cedar should be well washed in cold water, dried and lined with newspapers. These are pasted in, using the glue from the cedar paste.

Cover every place on the inside of the barrel, letting the paper come up to the outside of the barrel. Close the opening with paper and cover the side. The woobles should be thoroughly brushed and cleaned, carefully folded and laid in. When the barrel is full, the cover should be tightly closed, a stout manilla paper put over the top, and drawn well around the barrel, tied down with twine and pasted so as to fit close.

Hang out this paper in the sun-shade; let the heat of the sun come through them with a coarse dressing comb. Put into its box the stuff and a strip of paper around where the cover joins the box. The feet cap the same.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Recovering Wounds.

It is a somewhat startling fact that there are now three Duchesses of Manchester. The second of whom, who became dowager to the death of the duke in April, in March, 1880, was a widow man. She is the daughter of a Hanoverian nobleman, bearded, witty, highly accomplished, and able and astute.

The third, who is equally bold and astute, has been more influential in inducing or postponing a governmental crisis than she, while her social sway was undiminished. To her devoted friendship for the brilliant lady the London press ascribe the celibacy of the Marquis of Hartington. But no breath of reproach has ever assailed her grace's name.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Eugene Robinson's Mammoth Three Floating Palaces.

Eugene Robinson's Three Mammoth Floating Palaces which will exhibit in our town on Friday, May 26th, afternoon and evening, at the public landing, is something new, novel and instructive.

Mr. Robinson, the manager, is also the owner of Robinson's museum of novelties. Many a boy and girl has spared no pains or expense in getting up his elegant Three Floating Palaces. It will be the greatest show ever witnessed in these parts and everybody will enjoy a huge treat in the shape of curiosities, a fine and varied collection will be found.

The show will come here on two occasions. Floating palaces each of which is 50x150 ft. with a deck 100 ft. long. She has not been during the entire time, regularly opens her eyes. Her general health seems to be good, but her face has a deathly white appearance. Formerly she could go and take a walk in the grandest sight on earth. To say the least, it is well worth three times the price of admission which is 50¢, children under 12 years 25¢.

Euprepay.

This is what you ought to have, in fact, you must have, to truly enjoy life. Thousands are searching for it daily, and mourning because they find not. Thousands upon thousands of dollars are spent annually by our people in the hope that they may attain this boon; yet and it may be had by all. We send you a sample of it, if taken according to directions and the directions is will bring you Good Digestion and out the demon Desperado and install instead Euprepay. We recommend Electric Bitters for Dyspepsia and all diseases of Liver, Stomach and Kidneys. Sold at 50¢ and $1.00 per bottle by G. W. Short, Cloverport, Ky., and J. A. Witt, Hinsdale, Ill.

A WOMAN SWIMS FOR 24 HOURS.

She was a survivor of the Quetta Disaster, the official of the State of Alaska.

By Thursday morning's Australian mail we have for the first time full particulars of the Quetta disaster and the number, which is very costly to temper and stretch, and at least twice a disagreeable hint behind it is a good idea.

Miss Louise Imogene Grimes, the poet, thinks nothing of walking twenty miles. She measures her verses with a pedometer.

One pound of flour, a tablespoonful of sugar and three quarts of water boiled together with newspapers till the consistency of putty makes a good filling for flower cracks.

A beautiful woman pleases the eye, a good woman pleases the heart; one is a jewel, the other a trinket.

Miss Etika Gervier lately sang in a local concert for charity at Bologna. If her voice is gone the little prima seems to have a new lease on life.

Miss Jeannette M. Thurber contemplates building a great national must in Washington.

Jet streams, in disfavor, are now seen glistening in fluffy hair, and any thing fanciful in the way of hair ornaments that is not too high is allowable, not too low, not too tight, but, on a part of the bonnet or dress.

To relieve the monotony of dark costumes, Parisian ladies are wearing scarlet and emerald yellow, black velvet with red bows, their jackets with open fronts. The vests have high collars, like a gentleman's stock, or are worn with a cravat of the same silk, tied in a huge bow.

Sensible Ways of Dressing the Hair.

Another thing in which most women interested in the hair is that it is drawn straight up, the top of the head. It is better to have the hair drawn in a large coffee cup, and do their best to make all their heads exactly alike, regardless of the distinctive style and characteristics of each face. Girls are very fond at some pains to discover what suits her best, and then remain faithful to it, with occasional modifications to conform the phases of fashionabile headgear. Do you know with me?

I fancy that many people are getting tired of having the hair all combed up in front of the head. It is better to have the hair drawn in straight up, the top of the head is better to be used for a single effect by no means becoming or pretty. As a rule, I think the hair that grows about the temples is the prettiest, and when it is drawn straight back and fastened to the puffs now so much worn, I have seen half a dozen decided changes in the last six months. They do not indicate a return of that old fashion. I saw two at Sandown by fashionably dressed women.—Madge in London Truth.

It is a somewhat startling fact that there are now three Duchesses of Manchester. The second of whom, who became dowager to the death of the duke in April, in March, 1880, was a widow man. She is the daughter of a Hanoverian nobleman, bearded, witty, highly accomplished, and able and astute.

The third, who is equally bold and astute, has been more influential in inducing or postponing a governmental crisis than she, while her social sway was undiminished. To her devoted friendship for the brilliant lady the London press ascribe the celibacy of the Marquis of Hartington. But no breath of reproach has ever assailed her grace's name.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Recovering Wounds.

It is a somewhat startling fact that there are now three Duchesses of Manchester. The second of whom, who became dowager to the death of the duke in April, in March, 1880, was a widow man. She is the daughter of a Hanoverian nobleman, bearded, witty, highly accomplished, and able and astute.

The third, who is equally bold and astute, has been more influential in inducing or postponing a governmental crisis than she, while her social sway was undiminished. To her devoted friendship for the brilliant lady the London press ascribe the celibacy of the Marquis of Hartington. But no breath of reproach has ever assailed her grace's name.—San Francisco Argonaut.

His Wife's Suffering from Erysipelas.

Mr. John O. Rogers, of Danna, Illinois, writes as follows under date of March 27, 1880: "My wife was for years an invalid from a blood trouble, and suffered much pain. She was a member of the tennis club, and was frequently seen at the local country and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.

She is the member of the Rockville Literary society, the Rockville Tennis Club, and the Rockville Yacht Club, a distinguished member of the Tolland County bar and at one time of the Connecticut house of representatives.

Miss Mary is 22 years old, and has been a student at the Rockville High School. She entered the Rockville High school at 14, and was graduated with honors in the class of '80. Miss Mary has been a member of the Rockville Club since her birth, and after her death in 1880 continued her studies in the office of B. H. Bill, of Rockville, state attorney of Tolland County, October, 1880, she entered the law school of the Boston University, where she will complete her legal studies.